Dear Ted:

Thanks so much for sending me a copy of the Kairos Prize award winning script Gideon. Randall's screenplay was a pleasure to read. The interdependency of religion and civil equality for the characters in this script nicely ties together the spiritual and historical elements of the story (the reality of segregation and the unifying role that spiritual faith can provide). They are both powerful and resonant themes.

Jenny is a sympathetic character whose story is immediately engaging. A social pariah finding a baby, and choosing to secretly raise it as her own sets up an intriguing mystery. That she forgives her community and is willing to share Gideon with the world, shows a quiet strength and depth to her character that could be explored even further.

Congratulations on another successful event acknowledging those who bring uplifting stories to the industry.

Thanks again for thinking of me.

Best regards,

Jeffrey Katzenberg
